ABOUT 'LEAKS'

We hope our readers will indulge us this morning while we make a few comments on what is designated in newspaper parlance as a "leak."

The definition of a "leak" is a source of confidential information concerning matters which are not presumed to be given publicity. Naturally it is the aim and ambition of any paper that desires to give its subscribers the news of what is going on, to "spring a leak."

The "leak" is the sacred elephant, the ark of the covenant as it were, in the editorial sanctum, and its identity is never disclosed under any circumstances. Many a scribe has gone to jail rather than prove recalcitrant to the ethics of his profession in this respect.

MISTAKEN NOTION

Proceedings of a grand jury are presumed to be secret, but their discussions and actions become public property almost immediately. Contrary to general opinion, nine times out of ten a newspaper does not get its facts from any member of that body.

The Record-Herald, within the past few weeks has published columns regarding the McCord case and, surprisingly, but true, its data was obtained from other sources than "any grand juror or jurors." That is more easily possible than suspected by many people. There are a hundred different methods and sources from which news can thus be obtained.

CONCRETE EXAMPLE

As a concrete example this newspaper was in possession of the vote, 13 to 5, by which Mrs. McCord would be indicted, three days before the true bills against her were returned. In fact a member of the editorial staff so informed one of the grand jurors a day prior to when action was taken. Believe it or not we were confidentially informed on the streets of Richmond and by a person not even remotely connected with the grand jury. At that time, however, we did not know it.

Both Sides Are Scored In Wife Trading Scandal

LOS ANGELES, March 15.—UP.—The celebrated "wife trading" divorce wrangle of Walter W. Emerson and his wife, Jane Scholtz Emerson, ended tonight with a "no sale" decision by Judge Ben Barr Lindsey.

Judge Lindsey ruled that neither Mrs. Emerson, who admitted she went to bed with Barton Sewell, millionaire Beverly Hills realtor, nor Emerson, who the jurist said "connived" at his wife's indiscretions, showed proper grounds for a divorce.

He awarded three minor children, over whom the court battle was fought, to their maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund L. Scholtz of Denver, Colo. Judge Lindsey directed scathing criticism at both parties to the contested divorce action, and also at Sewell and his wife, the former Leah Clamplitt.

COMPROMISE IS REACHED BY SENATE

WASHINGTON, March 15.—UP.—President Roosevelt tonight won his dogged struggle with the Senate for the right to a free hand in fixing wages under the $4,880,000,000 jobs-for-all program when the prevailing pay amendment was defeated 50 to 38.

Immediately afterward, by a vote of 83 to 2, the Senate accepted a substitute amendment by Senator Richard Russell, D. Va. Those who voted "no" were Senators Frederick Hale, R. Me., and Jesse Metcalf, R. R. I.

REVERSES ACTION

In turning down the proposal by Senator Pat McCarran, D. Nev., the Senate reversed its action of two weeks ago when, in the face of a White House veto, the amendment was adopted, 41 to 43.

Eighteen Republicans, 19 Democrats and one Farmer-Laborite voted for the amendment today. Forty-four Democrats, one Progressive and five Republicans voted against it.

VOTE CHANGED

Senators who voted "aye" before and today voted "no": Austin, Black, Gibson, LaFollette, O'Mahoney and Wagner.

Under the McCarran amendment the government would have been compelled to pay wages prevailing in various localities in which construction is undertaken under the proposed program.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—UP.—After a day of feverish activity, the treasury department's 1,200 agents counted up tonight and found they had arrested 1,900 persons accused of being smugglers, drug peddlers, liquor tax violators and counterfeiters.

Property confiscated was estimated at $1,500,000.

The round-up of suspects was the largest on record and was expected to surpass 2,400 before the agents concluded sometime next week. It involved every branch of the treasury law enforcement agencies.

Among the confiscated property were 811 stiffs capable of producing 211,661 gallons of liquor daily, 110 automobiles, a shipload of fish which were being smuggled into the country, an old violin and 33 dozen eggs.

The Reeves bill which would make it a misdemeanor for school teachers to require pupils to participate in parades, exhibitions or public demonstrations, came up for hearing today and provoked a storm of protest from officials of the Pasadena Tournament of Roses and other civic affairs, although stoutly favored by representatives of the San Francisco Musician's Union.

Grand Jury Probes Sterilization Cases

MARTINEZ, March 15.—UP.—Investigators tonight checked records of the Contra Costa county hospital to determine whether reports of wholesale sterilization operations to prevent additions to county relief rolls were justified.

District Attorney F. P. Healey announced that he had under particular investigation the reported sterilization of an 18-year-old unmarried girl under direction of the county social service department.

"The grand jury desires to know if this is the newer sociology because of the fact it was rumored that one of those persons sterilized was only 18 years old and single, or whether it was done for any other purpose," Healey said.

Healey declined to expand on his comment, or to explain his reference to "another purpose" in the sterilization operations.

DENIES REPORT

Dr. E. W. Merrithew, county physician, denied that women on county relief rolls had been induced or coerced into submitting to sterilization operations. He said that many applicants for such operations had been refused treatment.

DENIES COERCION

"I don't believe anyone was forced to undergo such operations," said Dr. Merrithew. "I think it is a lot of baloney."

"Such operations have been performed, I don't know how many. But in every one there was consent. Arrangements were made before they ever came to the hospital but necessary consent is on file."

A NEW ANGLE

SAN FRANCISCO, March 15.—Investigation of houses of ill fame in Reno, Nev., was sought today by Contra Costa county authorities following grand jury investigation of charges that women on county relief have been forced to submit to sterilization operations.

This aid has been asked of the federal government, to determine if any of the women submitting to the operations have been transported to Reno. If the connection proves true, Mann act charges will be filed against persons involved, it was reported.

Sandy Esquante, and Hugh Smith, alleged members of the gang were arrested for disturbing the peace.

The gun was found lying in the open although the same area had been searched the day before and no weapon had been discovered.

CAL. FAVORED
TO WIN MEET
WITH O'CLUB

BERKELEY, March 15.—UP—Represented by the most powerful track and field team it has had in years, the University of California tonight was favored to nose out the Olympic Club of San Francisco in their dual meet at Edwards field Saturday.

With an entry list replete with prospective Olympic Games candidates, the meet is expected to bring out the best performances in most events which have been recorded in northern California this season.

Walter Marty, world's record holder in the high jump, heads the list of Olympic Games candidates with the club team. Marty is not expected to be pressed by the California jumpers, Hugh Thompson and Eugene Reid, but if weather and pit conditions are right, may approach or equal his marks of last season.

Johann Lyman, second only to world's champion Theodoratus of Louisiana as a shot putter, and Gordon "Slingshot" Dunn, discus champion, are both favored to cop first places for the club squad.

Bob Heavey, sophomore miler for California, is expected to receive his first set-back of the season when he meets Norman Bright, Olympic club star. Bright went four laps in 4:18 in practice this week, far below Heavey's best time of 4:27.

In the 100 and 220 yard dashes George Anderson and Morris Pollock of California are rated as certain winners over Lou Salvato, club sprinter.

California's great quartet of hurdlers, Tom Moore, Del Fishbank, Dick Coe and John Woods, are favored to take clean sweeps in both events.

MAX ALL SET FOR A BATTLE
WITH J. LOUIS

SACRAMENTO, March 15.—UP—Indignant because a young negro heavyweight discounted his punching ability, playboy champion Max Baer offered today to drape Joe Louis—the offender—over the chairs in row G.

"When I start whistling punches at him he'll think a battleship is using him for target practice," Baer snorted when informed the 20 year old Detroit Negro figured Baer could be knocked out or discredited in 15 rounds, and that Louis was the one who could accomplish the feat.

READY FOR GO
"Bring on that fellow," Baer said. "I'll drape him over those chairs in row G. I have him licked now and he knows it. He was in my dressing room at Boston and I was showing him some tricks. He was so scared of me then he could not look me in the eye."

Anell Hoffman, manager of the world's champion, was elated over the exchange of verbal wallops. "I hope the boys continue to threaten each other," he said. "If Louis sounds off very much on his idea that he can beat Baer, and that Max's punches couldn't hurt him, he will build up a $1,000,000 gate for a match between the two."

"GETTING HOT"
"I'm getting hot now for this bout. There is no such thing as the color line for us. If Louis managers will let him meet Baer, we certainly will talk business." Hoffman was informed the young Negro wanted a fight with Baer next summer, but that his handlers thought he was too young and needed seasoning before tackling the champion.

Hoffman also received additional overtures from Walter Rothenberg, Hamburg promoter who wants Baer to fight Max Schmeling in Berlin. In reply to Hoffman's demand that Rothenberg deposit $10,000 in this country and name an American representative to talk about the proposed match, the German said Charley Harvey, manager of Steve Hamas, would return to America soon and represent the Rothenberg interests.

Baer's manager will make no definite arrangements for a fight until the Madison Square Garden Corporation settles the question of a title defense battle in June. Once an agreement is reached, Hoffman will attempt to arrange another fight in August. The champion, meanwhile, will start light training here. His proposed trip to Chicago for a series of exhibitions was cancelled.

CARNERA WINS SLOW BOUT
BY TECHNICAL KNOCKOUT

NEW YORK, March 15.—UP—Ex-champ Primo Carnera blasted a fellow man mountain from Da Priene's comeback trail tonight when he battered huge Ray Impletiere about Madison Square Garden's ring until the Imp's manager, Harry Lanny, jumped into the ring and stopped the slaughter in the ninth round.

Lanny's action gave Carnera a technical knockout victory, with only one more session to go in their scheduled ten rounder. It was a humane move on Lanny's part because his 258½ pound giant from Cold Spring, N. Y., was battered, groggy, bleeding and helpless.

FANS DISPLEASED
However, the near capacity house of 18,000 greeted the action with thundering boos. They were disappointed because the 265 pound former heavyweight champion in his first American appearance since losing the title to Maxie Baer last summer was unable to put his staggering opponent away. The Imp had been on the verge of a knockout since the start of the seventh round.

when Primo shook him up with a barrage of blows to the head.

ACTION SLOWS UP
The largest crowd attending a professional fight at the Garden in more than a year thought they would witness indeed a slugging battle of toe-to-toe running man and the six foot seven and a half inch Imp staggered Primo twice with shots to the chin. But the action slowed down in the fifth round and Referee Jack "the Giant Killer" Dempsey spent a busy 15 minutes thereafter prying the two big hulks apart.

Between Carnera's inability to finish his man, and the Imp's utter lack of ruggedness, the booring customers were convinced at the end that the bigger they come the louder they maul.

Although Carnera had only a nine and a half pound weight advantage over his less experienced opponent, his superior brute strength gave him a telling edge in close fighting.

Speaking of Sports

LONDON, March 15.—A quiet season faces British golfers after last year.

No international matches are scheduled, and chief interest, apart from the Open Championship and the Amateur Championship, is the selection of the Ryder Cup team for the match at Ridgewood, N. J.

The "Professional Golfers' Association already has appointed a selection committee. It will follow the example of 1933, choosing 20 or so probabilities from whom the final team will be selected.

Since the match will not be played until September, the British golfers have all the season to be warmed up. The final selections will depend on their performances in the major tournaments.

The first season opens April 4 with the first of the big professional tournaments, the two-day Rochester Invitation. The holder is Reginald Whitcombe.

The first of the championships, is the English, to be played at Hollinwell, Nottingham, for the first time, starting April 29. The holder is S. T. Lunt, who beat Leonard Crawley in an extraordinary final at Forby last year.

Starting May 13 there is the Dunlop-Southport $80,000 tournament, the richest event of its kind in Europe. Alfred Padgham, who was the last winter, had the remarkable score of 279 for the 72 holes.

Next comes the Royal St. George's Challenge Cup, the premier stroke competition for amateurs, in which Lawson Little is expected to compete. The following week, beginning May 20, he will be defending his British amateur title at Royal Lytham and St. Annes, Lancashire.

Clashing with the "Amateur," starting May 22, there is the British Women's Open championship.

THREE KILLED POST FAILS IN ATTACK ON SECOND UPPER ARABIAN KING AIR JOURNEY

MECCA, Kingdom of Saudi-Arabia, March 15.—Three assassins were killed by a royal bodyguard as they attempted to cut down Ibn-Saud, the "Warrior King" of Saudi-Arabia, close to the sacred black stone which the Mohammedans believe was given by the Angel Gabriel to Abraham.

The 55 year old king, who stands six feet four inches tall, was saved from the assassins' knives by his son and heir, the Emir Saud, who grappled with the leader of the three assassins and stayed his dagger until the king's armed bodyguard shot the three attackers dead with pistol fire.

The attackers were believed to be natives of Yemen, the nation which Ibn-Saud defeated last year in battle, imposing his imperial will upon the land. They fell in the court of the Great Mosque of Mecca.

PRAYING AT TIME

Ibn-Saud and his son were following their strict Mohammedan creed of daily prayer and their own strict adherence to Ibn-Saud's early vow to pray—facing Mecca—five times daily.

The monarch, who through his fearlessness and ruthlessness in governing his native kingdom won the appellation "the Crowned of Hedjaz," entered the mosque and with his bodyguard, started circling the shrine of Kaaba, the "nearly cubical stone building which contains the famous black stone."

The stone is an object of the especial reverence of every Mohammedan in pilgrimage to Mecca. One of the objects of the pilgrimage is to kiss the stone.

3 MEN MAKE ATTACK
Suddenly the three men rushed forward brandishing the daggers. The guards fired, cutting down two of the assassins immediately, but the king's son grappled with one of them alone. The bodyguard went to his assistance and shot the third man dead.

Then the king and the Crown Prince completed the circuit of the Kaaba, entered, kissed the stone, and coolly returned to the palace.

Ibn-Saud is perhaps the world's most colorful dictator as well as being a most strict Mohammedan.

SOVIETS HIT BY THE D. A. R. TO BE FETED AT BIG MEET

OAKLAND, March 15.—UP—A resolution calling on the United States immediately to withdraw diplomatic recognition of Soviet Russia was passed unanimously by the California D. A. R. in convention here today.

The enthusiastic applause greeted introduction of the resolution, and it was passed with resounding acclaim.

The resolution held that "Communists are spreading propaganda all through the United States, and until Russia can prove that nothing like that is going on recognition should be withdrawn."

Another resolution "viewed with alarm" alleged Communist teachings in government summer schools for unemployed teachers.

The convention rejected a resolution classing Japan as a "menace." Other resolutions opposed any modification of the principle of alien exclusion laws.

A resolution introduced said alleged literature distributed to Japanese school children in the United States taught them to ally Japan to Japan rather than to the United States.

Enthusiastic approval also was given a resolution urging restoration of women to control of the Tehachapi State prison, with Mrs. Louis Ward Watkins, Los Angeles, in charge of the institution for women.

Post said his oxygen had run out and his ignition coil had broken, forcing him to land.

The glider wore a cumbersome rubber and aluminum outfit equipped with oxygen tanks to permit him to fly at altitudes where great speed was possible but where there was insufficient air to breathe.

His great height enabled him to achieve much higher speed than closer to earth but the frigid temperature incapacitated the coil.

Savannah Fire Razes Terminal; Business Block

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 15.—UP—Fire razed a square block containing the combined terminals of the affiliated Central Georgia Railway and ocean steamship company here late today.

Ignited by explosions of sacked nitrate in the warehouses and fanned by a stiff southeast breeze, the fire razed the block in little more than an hour.

Firemen concentrated their effort on nearby terminals and warehouses and prevented spread of the waterfront blaze.

The ocean steamship, City of Atlanta was pulled blazing from its slough by a tug whose heroic crew backed it into the midst of the flames. The ship may be salvaged.

Quick work by trainmen saved several freight trains standing in the area.

No estimate of the loss was available immediately.

Members of all parts of northern California to attend the annual Irish High Jinks and traditional St. Patrick's banquet.

Fast Director Horner, Director Emeritus Foye and Emeritus Meredith are to be presented with past officer's jewels of the order at the ceremonies of the evening. The presentation is to be made by John M. Bonner, well known Oakland business man and president of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce.

The program for the Irish High Jinks this year has been changed and the regular Jester cast will be augmented with a colorful revue featuring a number of professional performers. Among the stars of the Jester Revue will be Miss Beatrice Leah, formerly of Earl Carroll's Vanities, who will present a number of hit songs direct from the New York stage. Another talented artist who will be featured in the Jester Revue is Miss Elsie Yerkes, famous Oriental dancer, late of the Hollywood Revue, who has been brought to Oakland especially for the annual Jester Jinks.

Other prominent business and professional men in the cast are: Raphael J. Polk, tragedian; Stanley M. Taylor, character man; Capt. M. G. Waddell, heavy man; Kenneth C. Preliminary to the banquet and high jinks the newly decorated and furnished club rooms in the Atheneum building, Oakland, will be dedicated, with Henry Wicking of Oakland as chairman of the house committee and Herman L. Englehardt serving as chairman of the entertainment committee.

Some believe the new inflation move will be in the Spring; others that it will not be until Summer or Fall. But these observers point to the following as indicative that some dollar manipulation will come.

Government call of First Liberty Loan bonds for June 15. After the outstanding government financing has been completed, many believe, the dollar value will be dropped just as Great Britain permitted sterling to drop after her refunding operations were completed.

Some view that the snag in commodities and shares—without any new governmental action is the development preceding new dollar moves.

Not Drunk, Driver Says; Only Fumes

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 15.—John Calvey is on trial on a charge of driving while intoxicated, but says it isn't so.

Calvey admitted witnesses probably smelled whisky after his arrest but told the jury he was in a distillery breaking up old liquor barrels and fumes soaked into his clothes.

He added that on the night of his arrest he had been without sleep for 48 hours because of the illness of his father and had fallen asleep at the wheel.

WOMEN WANT PRISON BOARD

SACRAMENTO, March 15.—The Senate Committee on Prisons and Reformatories gave favorable recommendation to a proposed constitutional amendment and two bills which would remove women prisoners from control of the State Prison Board and place them under the jurisdiction of a board composed of women.

All measures were introduced by Senator Waggy, Bakersfield. Action on another related bill was postponed until it could be amended.

Appearing for the proposed legislation were Rose B. Wallace, a trustee of the California Institution for Women, Mrs. F. B. Wray of Davis, representing the Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Paul Ellet, of Berkeley, president of the California League of Women Voters, and Mrs. Eva Craven Wheeler, Los Angeles, state president of the W. C. T. U.

Picture Comedy Team Breaks Up

HOLLYWOOD, March 15.—Motion picture "team" of Laurel and Hardy, two of the oldest and best-known comedians in the industry has been broken up.

Hal Roach, producer of their pictures, announced today Stan Laurel the bewildered, sad-faced half of the combination, had not signed a new contract. "Inability to agree on stories" was the reason given by Roach. The producer said Oliver Hardy would remain at the studio, as the star of a series of domestic comedies.

Laurel and Hardy have been together for seven years.

DO NOT TELL ALL

There are many things which we know in various and devices ways, but all of them do not see publication. Some papers stumble along and never do know what is happening, and therefore are in no position to shed light on subjects in which their readers are vitally interested. An outstanding example of this is a statement appearing yesterday in a Pittsburg paper to the effect, that the grand jury, after listening to the testimony Wednesday night in the so-called Pittsburg "graft scandal" had decided to let the entire subject drop. To the contrary, and what is the real fact the investigation is going on with vigor and before long there is most likely something to crack (Pittsburg papers kindly take notice).

We could say a great deal more about this particular investigation, but we refrain last we be accused of trying to obstruct justice, and that is not the aim of this or any other paper. Some of the testimony given Wednesday evening would make most interesting reading, but we will bide our time before putting it in print.

PECULIAR THINGS

Things happen in peculiar ways their wenders to perform. For instance when a Martinez doctor and a layman tipped off the grand jury that there might be something out of the way in the numerous sterilization cases throughout the county, the members, one and all took a very solemn oath that not one word would be breathed about the matter. The story "broke" yesterday in a San Francisco paper, indicating very plainly that the probe had become public property. I do not say that any grand juror violated his oath of secrecy, in fact I do not believe such to be the case. But the visit of a juror to the State Board of Health at Sacramento and his subsequent trip to San Francisco with his recital of facts to that body gave plenty of opportunity in a dozen ways for the line of inquiry he was pursuing, to become known. However the article laid the source of information at the door of a grand juror, which to my mind was only a method of protecting the source of information by drawing a red herring across the trail.

So it is apparent that things become known without grand jurors disclosing them. It was ever thus and always will be, and the jurors should not become too greatly disturbed when their proceedings are not veiled in the sacred secrecy they desire.

Injunction Halts Sale Of Oil Options

STOCKTON, March 15.—UP—A temporary restraining order against St. Rubens, Los Angeles, oil operator, and the Great American Petroleum Corporation and Caudill Lease and Development Company, Rubens' concerns, halting sale of options on a Sacramento county oil development, was issued by Superior Judge Marion G. Woodward today.

The order was asked by the attorney general's office on behalf of the State corporation division on the ground the options and leases offered for sale came under State security laws and that Rubens has no permit to sell securities.

A hearing on the case was set for March 25.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY GO ROUND

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Members of the Senate Finance committee, now investigating the NRA, have decided that hereafter they will demand original copies of NRA reports.

Reason: Senators have discovered that under the Blue Eagle there are reports—and reports.

On the same day of the probe, "Assistant President" Don Rich was asked to furnish the committee with copies of the NRA Research and Planning Division report.

This is the document which, among other things, declared:

That while payrolls in December, 1934, were only about 60 per cent of the total in 1926, dividends and interest were 150 per cent of the total in 1926, that fixed minimum wages showed a marked tendency to become maximum; that 40 hours a week; that the big industries in general were allowed to fix the lowest minimum wages and scales and that the NRA is costing the country $55,000,000 a year to operate.

The next morning hand copies of the report were handed each Senator.

But when several of them began poring through the document they found it consisted almost entirely of bewildering charts, graphs and tabulations.

All the damning textual matter mentioned above was mysterious, missing.

When challenged on the deletions by Alabama Senator Hugo Black, Richberg insisted that the submitted copies were no different from the original.

"We just left out some of the discursive language," he said, "I should say you did," shot back Mack, "That discursive language is exactly what we want to see. Please see that we get it."

Richberg promised to set him an original copy—if one was available.

PINK ELEPHANT

Young, liberal Vito Marcantonio, successor to the seat held in the House for many years by Mayor La Guardia, is the recipient of a unique decoration.

He has been honored on him The Order of the Pink Pachyderm.

Donor is his fellow-crescendo, Maurer Mayerick of Texas, grandson of a signer of the Texas Declaration of Independence and himself the wearer of distinguished medals.

The Silver Star and the Purple Heart won on the battle fields in France.

Mayerick decorated his colleague with the following citation:

By virtue of the power vested in me as a gentleman, I am a gentleman according to the rules of the House. I do hereby present to the gentleman, according to the rules of the House, Mr. Vito Marcantonio the following:

One Pink Pachyderm.

Whereas as the said Marcantonio is an officer of the Republic of Italy, a Liberal, a sincere friend of the people, and believes in following the Constitution of the United States wherein it is said there shall be Liberty of Speech, Press, Conscience and Religion, and a worthy successor to Fiorello La Guardia, the said Marcantonio shall hereinafter be known and designated as:

The Pink Pachyderm of Congress.

Maurer Mayerick, The Gentleman from Texas.

THE QUESTION

The fate of the bonus issue this session revolves about only one question:

Can the backers of the legislation muster sufficient support to override the veto of the President?

Congress is certain to pass a bonus bill.

Whether it will be the Patman measure, which would finance the payment with an issue of greenbacks, or whether it will be the Legion-backed Vinson bill, which would have the method of financing up to the treasury and thereby presumably raise the money by a bond flotation, is any man's guess.

Because the Vinson bill has the Legion's endorsement the chances favor its enactment.

But one of the bills is certain to be laid on the White House doorstep and the real trial of strength between the President and Congress on the issue will then ensue.

And the contest will be settled—as has been the case in every previous test in the Senate.

The House is overwhelmingly for immediate payment of the bonus. Whether two-thirds of the Senate can be rallied to override the President remains to be seen.

TAXI CONVERSATION

Washington's taxi drivers are not noted for their gossip chattness. But there is one young driver, working his way through law school, who is wondering whether silence is not golden.

Morning after Huey Long's radio reply to General Johnson, he was hailed by a woman who asked to be driven to the Senate office building.

"That was some speech the Kingfish made last night," the driver observed.

"Wasn't it?" replied his fare pleasantly. "I thought Senator Long made a most excellent talk."

"He sure told the General what was what."

"Didn't he?"

As the woman alighted she said: "Young man, I am Senator Caraway and I want you to know how pleased I am at finding such an intelligent chauffeur."

Returning uptown, the taxi driver was again hailed by a woman who asked to be driven to the House office building.

"I sure got a kick out of listening to Huey Long last night," he began.

"I think it disgusting that man should be allowed to talk the way he did," was the cold reply. "American politics have fallen to a low state indeed."

The driver shifted to a different tack.

"It sure looks that way," he said. "But then, all politicians are crooks and I guess Huey is no different from the rest."

"Young man," came the angry rejoinder, "I am Mrs. Mary T. Norton, Congresswoman from New Jersey. I have been in politics for 14 years and I am no crook."

Note: Democratic Mrs. Norton is allied with the famous Mayor Hague machine of Jersey City.

FUN FILMS FEATURE FOX BILL SUNDAY

When Jimmy Cagney boasts his yard for a "cute little bug and squeeze" who sells doughnuts and coffee, it makes no difference to him that she is practically engaged to Pat O'Brien. In fact, it makes all the more fun, to be seen in "The Devil Dogs of the Air" which opens at the Fox theater tomorrow at the head of a gala St. Patrick's Day program. Laurel and Hardy in "Live Ghosts" also play on tomorrow's bill.

Margaret Lindsay is the said "bug and squeeze" and even though she looks Jimmy up in the ice box to cool his fervor, the spirit of conquest keeps him ever on her doorstep until she has to close shop to get rid of him.

When Pat and Jimmy are not fighting over their girl, they are scrapping over who is the best flier and many of the thrilling scenes reveal their daredevil attempts to prove the other a coward while supposedly following marine orders in mock maneuvers.

Lloyd Bacon directed the picture from the story by John Monk Saunders, and has in supporting roles Frank McHugh, as the ambulance driver who leaves an accident to the other fellow, Helen Lowell, John Arledge, Robert Barrett and others.

Two Hits Today

George Raft and Carole Lombard in "Rumba" plus George O'Brien in "Harold Bird Wright's" "When a Man's a Man" are the two features playing at the Fox theater today.

NEW YORK INSIDE OUT By DON O'MALLEY

NEW YORK, March 15.—Bruno Hauptmann is far from being forgotten in this town.

Collections for his defense fund, as a matter of fact, had assumed the proportions of a concentrated campaign before the Department of Welfare threw a monkey wrench into the works. The first mass meeting held to stir up enthusiasm for his cause proved so successful that a regular tour was mapped out.

Mrs. Hauptmann, with David Webster, promoter of the scheme, made appearances before crowded halls in the Bronx, in Brooklyn, and in the Yorkville section of Manhattan. Reports are that the total sum collected so far has reached $25,000. It is undoubtedly would have continued to grow, but it developed that the public solicitation for funds is illegal unless a special permit from the city is obtained.

Mrs. Hauptmann has had to promise that no money will be solicited unless such a permit is granted. The collection boxes in Yorkville shops have been removed. There is no precedent for granting a permit in such a case, and there may yet be a noisy legal fight over this whole issue.

There are many ways of becoming a public figure.

ONLY FAIR—Paris Chaliapin, 803 of the great singer, had an exhibition of his paintings and drawings at the Plaza the other afternoon. There are advantages in having and there member of the family create the advance publicity. A tea was given in the hotel ballroom for the occasion, and Mrs. James Roosevelt, Prince and Princess Alexis Obolensky, Agnes Toscanini, David Sarnoff, Edith Cantor and Adolph Zukor were some of the distinguished guests who strolled along.

Many of the pictures were of Fedor Chaliapin in his operatic roles. That was the least young Boris could do in return.

PATIENCE REWARDED—Charles Winter Wood is getting his chance at last. For five years he understudied the role of "De Lawd" in Marc Connelly's play, "The Green Pastures." In all that time Richard B. Harrison never once missed a performance. Winter and summer, in almost every state of the Union, the seventy-year old star went on night after night, chalking up close to 2,000 consecutive performances to his credit.

Last week, shortly after the return engagement had opened in

FLOOD TOLL IS MOUNTING

(By UNITED PRESS)

National Guard troops waged a dramatic two-way fight yesterday against the menace of floods and the instinctive hailing of families from leaving homes surrounded by rampant waters of the St. Francis river at Kennett, Mo.

RESIST REMOVAL

Nine levees, five near Kennett, and four at Piggott, Ark., gave way driving hundreds of families to high ground as additional thousands of acres of lowlands were inundated. Troops manned a fleet of flat boats and outboard motorboats, proceeding methodically through the stricken area. Major C. O. Raine of the Missouri National Guard, reported several instances of stubborn resistance to evacuation orders.

BIG AREA INUNDATED

An area 25 miles long, six miles wide at the northern end, and 20 miles wide at the southern end, was under water in the Kennett region. Depth of the water varied from one to 10 feet.

PROPERTY DAMAGE LARGE

Estimates of the property damage ranged into the millions. Three Negroes were drowned at Sikeston, Mo.

Midwest headquarters of the Red Cross, at St. Louis, estimated that the total number of refugees in the Missouri-Arkansas area last night was between 6000 and 10,000. A statewide appeal for Red Cross donations to aid in the refugees was made.

Meanwhile, flood conditions elsewhere improved slightly.

Kentucky, Illinois, Mississippi and the upper reaches of the Ohio river, still were affected, with many miles of highways under water. Some bridges were awash and impassable. Railroads reported several washouts.

DRESSMAKER'S DAUGHTER

BY James Noble Gifford

When Carol Morris, widowed mother, a small-town dressmaker, suddenly dies, Carol sets out for New York to seek a career. There she gets a job in Morgan's department store. Two men are in love with her—John Clark, a home-town beau, and Ranny Sterling, a rich young New Yorker—but Carol's one ambition is to achieve success, and she rejects both suitors. Unexpectedly, she gets an opportunity to buy for Morgan's in Paris, but her purchases fail to sell, and she is discharged. Eventually, she is forced to take a job in the bargain basement. When even the job goes wrong, she finally returns home to take up her mother's old dressmaking business. Meanwhile, John has gone to Paris.

CHAPTER XXVII

THE next morning, at eight o'clock, Carol stood on the little lawn in front of her house, directing the faithful old Caleb as he nailed up the dressmaking sign over the doorway.

"It sho do look fine, Miss Carol," said Caleb, climbing down from the ladder and standing off to admire the sign.

"Well, I hope it brings customers," laughed Carol.

After a more look at her sign, she went into the house. It was now just a question of waiting for people to come, or of doing what she could to make them come. It was not going to be easy—she knew that. But she figured on the curiosity of many people being sufficient to give her at least one trial.

Meanwhile, she was going to go to see everybody. No matter what unkind or humiliating things they might say, they would have to notice her smart clothes even while they were saying them. And she knew well enough that Morris-town's younger women, at least, had a real hunger for fine clothes.

IT WAS only a week since she had run blindly away from the smashed crockery on the floor of Morgan's bargain basement. It had seemed to her, at that moment, that she had no place to run, nowhere to go. In the locker room, as she had put on her hat, she had realized just how badly off she was. There would be no pay for her. Miss Coe would see to it that she paid for every broken piece. And that would be enough to eat up her small wages. She had gone uptown on the subway, feeling weary and desolate. When she reached the residence club, she had found Randolph Sterling standing on the steps, waiting for her. She had rushed to him with outstretched hands.

"Ranny, Ranny! I'm so glad to see you!"

"You can't fool me. As if you don't know there's only one John." On at least, used to think that. There was only one. He told me he'd met some people in Paris who knew you there. He mentions a Mrs. Hazelton who's rather interested in him."

"Mrs. Hazelton? Interested in John?" cried Carol.

"Yes. Why not? Goodness knows John's handsome enough. And this Mrs. Hazelton is very famous and successful, he says. She has introduced him to some people who she thinks may be useful to him later on. From his letter, I judge that he and she must be together most of the time. Isn't that wonderful for him? If John were married, a woman with money, it would be everything so much easier for him."

PASSAGE OF WORKS BILL IS PRAISED

SAN FRANCISCO, March 15.—UP—Defeat of the prevailing wage amendment to the $1,800,000,000 work relief bill was cheered today by Frank Y. McDougal, state emergency relief director, as speeding adequate jobs for unemployed in place of the dole.

"I hope this means a speedy substitution of worthwhile work at a living wage for the dole to relief clients," he declared.

The SERRA organization believed passage of the bill would insure adequate federal financial aid on a supplementary basis for California relief for the next two years.

At the same time, an unexpected allotment from Washington eased the present financial crisis in SERRA and guaranteed that the current program could be carried on practically at full speed until May 15.

Federal and State funds for general relief were increased to $10,000,000 with a new grant of $1,500,000 from Federal sources. In addition there is $14,000,000 balance in the State relief fund issued soon to be made available, making a total of $33,500,000 for the SERRA.

The regular budget had been estimated at $35,000,000.

It is hoped that even this comparatively small differential will be made up from either Washington or the State.

PEACE MOVE IN SEAMEN'S STRIKE FAILS HIGHER TAXES ON LIQUORS IN PROSPECT

PORTLAND, Ore., March 15.—UP—Strike blockade of petroleum tank steamers was broken partially today, when the Standard Oil Company motorship, H. T. Harper, sailed suddenly, believed headed for San Francisco.

C. E. Carter, business agent for the union, said he thought the motorship's crew had been replaced by another ship.

PEACE FAILS
SAN FRANCISCO, March 15.—A peace move by Joseph Mayer, United States Department of Labor conciliator, failed today to end the dispute between employers and employees of the Pacific Coast tanker group.

Mayer called both sides into conference today, but said after his conclusion that nothing had been accomplished.

AGREEMENTS REACHED
However, officials of the Seafarers' Institute of the Pacific said the walkouts in some of the seven general cargo ships tied up in coast waters were about to be ended because of "satisfactory agreements."

Crews of the vessels, operated by Calumet, Shearman and Isham Lines, assertedly had refused to sign East Coast agreements to recognize the International Seamen's Union, Local union officials said they believed boats in Seattle and Los Angeles included those to be released.

ASKS ACTION
Conciliator Mayer said the tanker seamen elude to their demand for preferential employment for the Seafarers' Institute of the Pacific so long as members were available. The tanker operators refused to concede the point.

Wage and other demands were considered secondary and arbitrable if the employment question were settled.

Mayer said new negotiations "would be attempted tomorrow, possibly leading to a settlement, but thought the controversy might drag into next week. The Seafarers' Union said 23 tankers were now tied up, March 18.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

By C. N. CHRISMAN, M.D.

Balancing the Health Budget Is Good Advice For the Person Whose Body Works Perfectly

SUFFICIENT time has elapsed for use to have broken most of our good resolutions for the new year, at least those we have had temptation to break. Now it is time for us to start again and decide to do some of these things naturally.

DR. CHRISMAN

In perfect health, all organs of the body function properly and no attention is paid to them. We scarcely have knowledge of their existence. It is only when in poor health, the tissues and organs make themselves known by pains, aches, poor function, and by changes in appearance and feelings.

A good resolution would be to take account of any change in our physical and mental feelings or actions and see a doctor to determine what causes the discomfort and try to correct it at once.

There is no complete happiness and comfort without good health, and we are being very foolish when we neglect it. The rules for good health are simple and easy. They include sufficient outdoor air, good food in proper amounts, plenty of rest and sleep, a calm disposition, and sufficient exercise to uphold the strength of our muscles and bones, and open the lungs to their full capacity.

WHEN anything interferes with these rules see your doctor. Don't wait until you are sick. You don't put off buying coal till the last lamp is burned. This much for ourselves; then comes the question of others. Communicable diseases carry away many human beings, especially children and young adults, whose lives never would have been sacrificed if someone else had been sufficiently thoughtful of others.

Our health authorities do much to prevent the spread of infectious diseases in the way of sanitation, providing pure water, pure milk and clean food, proper care of streams, and quarantine of those sick with contagious diseases. But, they cannot do it all.

I fear we would rise up in wrath if our health commission came around and placed a quarantine card on our houses every time we coughed and sneezed. But we can be of great help to ourselves, our families, and the community if we will practice voluntary isolation when we or any of our families have colds, influenza, measles, whooping cough, and other apparently slight diseases that can be carried to others.

A mild infectious disease in a child may lead to a deadly one in another, whom you did not protect by not staying at home when the disease was active. When your child has a cold, or other infectious disease, keep him at home, away from school, church, or other places where others will come in contact with him. He will recover more promptly others will not contract the trouble from him, and if the practice could become universal, infectious diseases would almost disappear.

THE long business depression with its worry, the drought, the heat, the cold have played havoc with our nervous systems. We feel that everything has gone wrong and we have been looking at the gloomy side of everything. That not only makes us unpleasant company for others, as well as to ourselves, but it interferes with the function of all our organs, with the result that our physical bodies are injured.

Man is a reasoning being who can, to a great extent, control his emotions and mental attitudes. These emotions and mental attitudes can have just as deleterious an effect on our physical well-being as can disease. Throw off worry and fretting, which we all know does no good, and say, "I'll do the best I can."

In these machine and specialty days we have forgotten some of the old things that for centuries have guided us well. We have turned to the specialist with his business side uppermost. We have often forgotten the family doctor who has been our protector and guide through feast or famine, bad weather and good. What we need is a general check-up and another resolution—and that is to balance our health budget.

Guide to Charm HANDS PLAY BIG PART IN EFFECT OF GIRL'S LOOKS

By JACQUELINE HUNT

MANY poets have rhapsodized about beautiful hands. They mean so much in the total personality—forever on view, always in a position to place the woman as a charmer or as a careless laggard who is passed by in the feminine race for admiration.

Look at your hands. Are they strong, independent hands that show the marks of hard work? Very well—but they should also express all the beauty they can too. They should not be "dressed" but they should be clean and self-respecting. You should not allow the texture to coarsen, the nails to have an unclean appearance. Hands should not be groomed like the feet, but they should be cared for as well as possible and still retain their personality.

The texture comes first. To keep it young and fine, you must do a number of things. You must protect the hands by wearing rubber gloves or cotton gloves while doing the housework; you must never put them in really hot water; and you must care for the skin on your hands like you do that on your face. Hot water dries the natural oils of the skin on the hands, and gives them an old, harsh appearance while the face is still young and fresh. Hot water also causes the veins to expand. Exercises will help the latter condition, but the first step is to avoid the hot water.

The easiest way to care for the texture of the hands is to cold-cream them every time you do your face. Use two applications if necessary. Rub the cream well into the skin so it will dissolve all dirt and grime. Remove the cream with tissues and dry your hands with a mild soap and warm water. Rinse and dry, pushing the cuticle down, gently with a soft towel as you do so. Apply a generous amount of night cream, massaging well into the hands, and cover them with cotton gloves while you sleep.

"Unfriendly Chins"
If you have one you will be interested in our new leaflet of exercises and treatments for eradicating double chins and sagging chin lines. Just send a stamped self-addressed envelope and this notice.

Seeing the Line
If you wish to have your rooms attractive you must consider outline decoration. This is not confined to shapes of furniture and articles in the room, although these play a part. It chiefly consists in the imaginary lines which are subtly registered on the vision by the linear contours of articles against or close to the walls. For example, some articles are high, some low. The eye takes in these differences almost as clearly as if a line were drawn on the wall up and down and across the tops of the things. If there is a continuity of high or low pieces the outline decoration is monotonous. It is artistic.

It is essential, therefore, to introduce variety in heights, widths and also in sizes just as length may be a beauty of decorative outline.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, Pioneer for Woman's Suffrage, Now Crusades for World Peace

WHAT does a person who has a purpose in life do when the desired end is achieved? The answer is: Find another world to conquer. Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, famous as a pioneer for woman's suffrage, now has turned her militant tactics to the cause of peace. At seventy-six she is still in fighting trim. She goes on the premise that war is a disease, and intends that the nations should find a cure for it. The organization she founded ten years ago, the National Committee on the Cause and Cure of War, held its annual conference last week in Washington, and all were agreed that much has been done in treating the war question without "emotion, sentimentality, and superficiality."

No stauncher fighter for peace could be found. Mrs. Catt was born in Wisconsin and brought up on a farm in Iowa. Carrie Lane, as she was then, taught school at the age of fourteen and at sixteen had saved enough money to put herself through

Purplish Colors Coming Up Importantly For Use in the Ever-Popular Knit Frock

FOR SPORT AND SOFT CLIMATES

By IRENE VAIL

New York—Among the old reliables may be listed knitted dresses, and jacket costumes. No one who knows anything about traveling by land, sea or air could be persuaded to depart for any place without one.

In looking into the new knits, many of you will be delighted to find more emphasis on the purplish colors heretofore rather hard to find. There are also a number of beige and gray suits, honey beige being one of the season's favorites, though hardly more so than gray.

The in-between brown which is called by several names including caravan, summer brown, deerwood, is quoted as a novelty that shows distinct possibilities of further development. It is also sponsored in worsteds in this texture which tailors into slender coats and suits.

Neat crossbar checks in men's wear colors, as blue-tan on white or oyster flannel grounds, make very sporting skirts and are liked by New York shops.

Pockets are highlighted dress features, with shirring often approved for these decorative and practical adjuncts, the pockets sometimes flaring at the upper edges.

Sketched today at left is a two-piece jacket suit of Lona cloth, the seed-flecked cotton resembling coarse linen. A colored wood buckle to match or contrast is used at the neckline. The spiral-crowned hat is of the same fabric. At right, the beach ensemble combines a three-quarter cuffed tunic with bolero jacket and hat. It is striped linen combining purple, green and black with natural. The stripes are swirled in the hat brim.

At right of the column an alpaca crepe frock has crepe braid looped around the edge of the collar and the bottom of the skirt. The sleeve with draped gauntlet treatment is faced with ice blue satin.

You and Your Child "DEVILISH" BOY NEEDS CURBING, NOT MORE ROPE

By JANE HERBERT GOWARD

MRS. BURNS is one of those indulgent mothers to whom everything her child does is cute. He is mischievous, he is devilish. He may annoy others, embarrass them, hurt or shock them, but to his mother he is always cute.

Among the many doubtful traits which his mother finds so endearing is Bobby's attitude toward the maid. He is a regular tyrant in the way he drives that girl. For instance, he won't let her sleep after five-thirty in the morning. That is the time he gets up. He goes into her room and wakes her, demanding that she get up and dress him or fix his orange juice.

I heard the story from the lips of Bobby's own mother. She was telling a mutual friend how full of life and daring the boy is, how he wakes the maid at dawn and puts her to work for him. We could hardly believe our ears.

My friend exclaimed, "Mistaking this for a sympathetic response, Bobby's mother recalled another one of his pranks. It was about the time the maid went to hang up some clothes in the backyard and Bobby conceived the brilliant idea of locking her out. She tried the back door, shook it and knocked on it, but he would not let her in. Maybe the reader will see the joke. We didn't."

YOUTH takes crazy chances. At some time while growing up, nearly every child plays pranks and acts the clown. But so long as he is just clowning or taking some foolish chance on his own responsibility, we can afford to laugh if no harm comes out of it in the end. It ceases to be a laughing matter, however, when someone is hurt. Then we say that the child is "clumsy" and a "fool." And when, as in Robert's case, another deliberately is made to suffer, the act is malicious and punishable. Let us forget, children do not grow out of habits but into them. It is the parents' job, therefore, to set children a good example. Servants are deserving of consideration and have rights which we should respect and teach our offspring to respect.

The School Child
Mrs. Goward's latest pamphlet, "Meeting the School Child's Problems," may be obtained free of charge by waiting to her care of this paper and enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Short Cuts
It is a good idea to make up a list of French dressing at a time. It will keep in the refrigerator and is handy to have. Use three tablespoons of olive or vegetable oil to one of vinegar. Add a little salt, a dash of cayenne pepper, a little dry mustard, paprika and a little sugar. For fruit salad simply add more sugar to this French dressing.

If you are running out of ideas for cold weather supper menus: how about pork and beans and brown bread? It is a simple combination that always goes over big.

Beauty Tips

QUESTION: "Until recently I have been one of the fortunate women who have found it unnecessary to use lipstick, but now my lips have lost some of their color and I am anxious to find a necessary to lighten them with lipstick. Frankly, I am rather fastidious about over-doing things, therefore I ask your advice for the correct way to apply the lipstick so that I will not be too conspicuous.—W.L."

Beginners are apt to use too much lipstick, or rather to misuse it at first. Try to find the color that harmonizes with your complexion tones and rouge first of all. A good clear red, not too vivid, may be best at first. Apply it lightly. If your lips are quite thick or your mouth large, keep the color well within the natural lines of your lips. Blend it evenly with your fingertips or by biting the lips together.

If the lips are quite thin, you can make your mouth more attractive by applying the lip color all the way to the natural line. Do not extend the color above or below the natural line, however, as the effect is harsh and artificial. After the color is applied take up a little softening cream or camphor ice on your finger and massage it into your lips. The color will be more lasting and more natural in appearance.

QUESTION: "I am eighteen and five feet, two inches tall. What should I weigh?—J. S."

For your age and height you should weigh from 115 to 118 pounds. You might weigh a little more or less according to the bony structure of your body.

MOST people look upon canned soup merely as the first part of a meal. This, of course, is fair enough. A dinner could not be started any better way. But soup of the canned variety is useful in other ways, too. They are really wonderful for making zesty sauces and gravies, and if you have never thought of using them this way I should like to say that I have missed a good bet.

For the "first-course" soup, you should follow the basic directions in the container. The amount of milk, water or seasonings can be varied to suit individual tastes. The clear canned soups such as bouillions, consommés and tomato soup can be served either hot, cold or iced. You should experiment with different combinations of soups and with different seasonings.

Soups are made twice as attractive and appealing if you vary the garnishes and accompaniments occasionally. Crisp buttery popcorn, cooked rice, grated raw carrot, minced red and green peppers, sliced olives, chopped hard cooked eggs, grated cheese, whipped cream, chopped nuts, cheese straws, potato sticks, and for clear soups, slices of lemon and orange give the soup bowl a new flavor and an attractive appearance.

Canned soups for extending left-overs or for making sauces for various main dishes. Beef extracts or beef soups are excellent for making gravies or for giving a rich flavor to stews or casseroles of left-over meats. Chicken soups or bouillions are excellent for molded chicken or meat loaves or for curried rice or meat dishes.

Canned tomato soups may be used for the basis of delicious vegetable soups for special occasions. Little mounds of freshly made minestrone, meat or fish balls or for vegetable combinations. Vegetable soups can be strained and the vegetables combined with canned shrimp or crabmeat in a rich cream sauce and served on buttered toast for a main dish for luncheon or supper. The strained vegetables are especially nice for vegetable omelets or timbales as they are cooked and

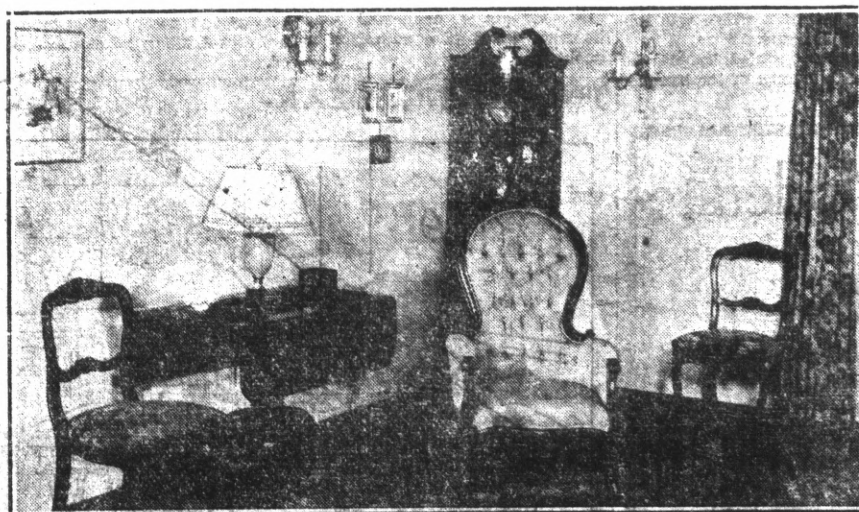

MODES AND MANNERS

QUESTION: "A young woman has a car and her boy friend comes to visit her from a distance without a car and is a guest in a hotel. He invites her to dinner at the hotel. They go to a show and then to her home for the rest of the evening. Should the girl use her car to return him to the hotel? The girl lives where the walk back would be at least two miles, and where street car arrangements would be somewhat complicated for a stranger. Would the same answer apply to a man without a car living some distance from the girl's home in another part of the city?—P. J."

ANSWER: While it is not customary for a girl to see a young man home, we do go out of our way to make the visitor comfortable in our homes. Why shouldn't we be willing to extend certain extra little courtesies for the convenience of a friend who visits our town and is a stranger there. If your friend protests that it is too late for a girl to be out alone, ask your brother, sister, mother or dad to come along for company.

In the case of a boy friend without a car living in another part of the city, it is optional whether you take him home or not. The answer would depend on the circumstances. For instance, if it were raining hard, if trolleys had stopped running for the night, or if you knew that he was working hard and had to be up early the next morning, it would be a nice thing for you to volunteer to take him home in your car.

Love in a One-Room Apartment Can Be Realized If Couple Understand Each Other

AFTER sixty-five years of married life one might be expected to know something about the rules of the game. Believing that they do anyway, a couple in the octogenarian class have posted rules for the game as they have found and played it. Here they are:

1. Don't expect more of a marriage than you are willing to put into it.

2. Keep the old-fashioned virtues: shined up.

3. Have a religion—and live up to it.

4. Hang on to your sense of humor—you'll need it.

5. Overlook your partner's faults—you have plenty, too.

6. Be patient.

7. Look upon your marriage as something growing and permanent.

8. Put down roots—own your own home.

9. Don't marry too young.

10. Raise a family.

11. Try to avoid a one-room kitchenette apartment.

12. Marriage is a partnership, but the man should be the senior member. Or, and this might be added as rule 13, for women only, make him think he is.

What do you think of them? Not revolutionary, in any event. Easier said than done is my reaction, as it is probably yours. The first stipulation is one of the best, if not the best of them all. So many wives demand of their husbands that which they are not willing to give, and, of course, the rule works the other way, too.

Obviously, no one can make a success of anything, marriage least of all, unless one puts in it considerable capital, of one sort or another. The discouraging part of many marriages is the one of the participants so often puts into the enterprise a great deal more than the other. When both partners resolve to make a success of marriage, and work together to that end, there isn't one chance in a hundred that their marriage will not be a success.

The seventh condition in the above list also seems to me to be very important. I must admit, though, that there are many happy marriages with no roots at all, where, who are happily married. Obviously, they must marry among wanderers like themselves. For the average couple, however, roots are an essential and the deeper they grow the better chance for the permanency of the marriage.

Probably that is why the average woman possesses sort of sixth sense which urges her to establish a home. It is her method of safeguarding herself against the "here-to-day and gone-to-morrow" association. Nearly all women have this home instinct, but it is less common in men. Many fight against taking root, and insist on being foot loose and free. They resent the caged or tailed suggestion and want to feel free to release themselves from a bond that might be irksome. They may never take, or even want to take, advantage of the open door, still they are regretful of a life sentence.

"GIVE me liberty or give me death" is a slogan with which most men are entirely in accord. Even so, it does seem as though the chances of marriage enduring are the better when there is home-building to enmesh the minds of the partners. For a marriage partnership has many sides.

Just what the objection to a one-room kitchenette setup may be is difficult to tell. Such an abode can be a home in every sense, and it is as near to a real home as many couples—especially the young ones—can attain. Love in a cottage need not necessarily be any more ideal than love in a kitchenette apartment, and the latter is likely to be much more practical.

Generalizations are often helpful, but since each couple has its own special and particular code made to fit their special and particular circumstances it is undoubtedly true that a dozen better rules could be formulated by almost any couple who would take the trouble to analyze their own particular temperaments and requirements. It might help to try formulating a set for your personal use.

Other Woman Is New Factor In Lamson's Trial

SAN JOSE, March 15.—UP—The motive which assertedly prompted David Lamson to beat his wife to death with an iron pipe today was stressed by State witnesses in Lamson's retrial on murder charges.

"My God, why did I ever marry her?" Lamson was quoted as crying out shortly after the body of his wife had been found in the bathroom of their home.

John M. Moore, former Santa Clara undersheriff testified concerning Lamson's alleged statement.

Backing this apparent indication of marital discord in the Lamson's home was preliminary testimony introduced to identify Mrs. Sarah Kelly, blonde divorcee, as the "other woman in the case." Prosecutor Allen P. Lindsey also was understood to have received a letter, unsigned, alleging that Lamson kissed Mrs. Kelly on a Sacramento street. Lindsey was reported seeking means of introducing the letter as evidence in the trial.

Big Navy Plan Is Approved By British Solons

LONDON, March 15.—The British government's plans to spend approximately $16,000,000 on its naval establishments in 1935 sailed serenely through the House of Commons today on the wings of a 158 to 15 vote of approval.

Estimates for the entire naval program totaling about $286,000,000 provide for construction of several new vessels, including three 5000-ton cruisers, and for repair and modernization of existing craft.

The House defeated an amendment which sought a reduction of 2000 men in the navy personnel, now fixed at 91,482. The vote was 155 to 35.

ARTHUR GROSVENOR, of 547, Eighteenth street, suffered a fractured rib in a fall in his bathroom yesterday.

Mother Held To Blame In Death
Of Little Son

DAVIS, March 15.—UP—Police charged tonight that a mother's traffic carelessness had cost the life of her four year old son.

The body of Louis Dickens, 4, was found near a railroad trestle in a slough eight miles from here. Louis apparently had either been swept from a railroad track above by a passing train or had fallen head-first into the slough.

His mother, authorities claimed, admitted placing him on the railroad track when she became "tired" while she walked with him toward her home.

After placing the boy on the track she walked on to a dredger where she crawled into a boiler and went to sleep. A watchman found her and took her to her home. At the request of her husband, a search was started for Louis. Hours later his body was found in the slough.

Two Are Killed In Auto Wreck

GILROY, March 15.—UP—Bodies of Mrs. Arch Parks, 40, and Angelo Delario, 67, a rancher, were found today in an automobile wrecked at the bottom of a steep mountain gulch.

The machine apparently had plumed from the highway nearby during a hard rainstorm last night.

Mrs. Parks was survived by her husband, a son, William Parks, and a daughter, Mrs. James Rae. Mrs. Rae is the daughter-in-law of Edwin Rae, member of the defense counsel to David Lamson in Lamson's current retrial on murder charges.

Delario was survived by Mrs. Delario and a number of brothers and sisters.

Five Dionnes
Are Now Wards
Of Government

TORONTO, Ont., March 15.—UP—Five baby girls—skyrocketed to fame and popularity by the accident of simultaneous birth—tonight passed under the protection of the British Crown.

Against the protests of Mr. and Mrs. Ovide Dionne, the backwoods French Canadian father and mother of the quintuplets, the Ontario legislature adopted a measure which makes the babies wards of the government.

As a gesture of opposition, Mr. and Mrs. Dionne and their other four children moved here and lodged into the DaFoe hospital, specially built home of the quintuplets, it was reported.

They stayed there two hours until induced by Dr. Allan R. D. Foe, the babies' doctor, to leave. The parents, who have engaged a manager, believe they should be permitted full control of the quintuplets. Welfare Commissioner David Croil insisted they be made crown wards to prevent

Betrothal Of Royal Couple
Is Announced

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, March 15.—The "love match" engagement of Princess Ingrid, second daughter of Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf of Sweden, and Crown Prince Frederik of Denmark and Iceland, was officially announced today. Date for the wedding was not immediately announced.

The golden-haired Ingrid is 24 years old and has a keen love of sports. She always has been fond of tennis, motorcycling, dancing and riding. Frederik, at 36, is tall and handsome. He is a great-nephew of the late Queen Alexandra and second cousin of the Prince of Wales.

The Crown Prince had been engaged in 1922 to Princess Olga of Greece, a sister of the Duchess of Kent, but the match was broken off after six months.

The engagement is regarded in political circles as binding the royal families of Sweden and Denmark even more closely.

Their being exploited to the detriment of their health.

"undue influence and coercion" to force its men to vote for a so-called company union in an election March 8. A new election was asked.

LOST ELECTION

The Warehousemen's Union, an affiliate of the International Longshoremen's Association, lost the election 168 to 97. However, it was believed an "organization campaign" since trouble developed at the plant three days ago had increased I. L. A. sentiment.

R. G. Wagenet, RLB director, said he was starting peace conferences today, but would not say how long the trouble would last.

PLANT CLOSED

"I'm hopeful, that's all I can say," he declared.
The C & H plant, largest in the world, employing 1500 workers, remained closed.

The men arrested identified themselves as Jack O'Connor, Oakland business agent of the I. L. A., William Breen, 32, William Sperry, 35, Louis B. Silva, 30, George W. Wolfson, 24, all of Oakland and A. F. Browning, 21, of 401 16th street, Richmond. Police said that Browning is the only member of the group employed at the Crockett plant and that the others are members of the International Longshoremen's Association or its affiliate, the Warehousemen and Cereal Workers' Union.

There were no disturbances at Crockett today. The town is still being policed by Sheriff John A. Miller and deputies.

plimented him very highly on the good work he was accomplishing in the legislature at Sacramento.

"I am happy to be with you tonight, as I feel that I am among friends," said DeLap, "and know that I was justified in stealing away from the State capital to be present."

TAXATION THE THEME

"The principal topic of discussion at the session is 'taxation.' There are certain functions in connection with State government that must be carried out, and many of us are apt to forget that these things cost money. You cannot have them unless you pay for them. For example, there are the feeble-minded institutions, the insane hospitals, the reform schools, the state prisons and many other functions, not forgetting the maintenance of the public schools of the State which cost $144,000,000 alone. When it comes to raising money, there are many complications that are encountered. Every group is for every form of taxation that is proposed, except that one that affects themselves. They do not consider the matter from the broad standpoint of the greatest good to the greatest number—they are selfish. In this connection I want to congratulate the representatives of the State Real Estate Association, who have appeared before committees at Sacramento. They have been more than fair in what they have presented. True they are opposed to a part of the program, but they say if we cannot get along without those things being included, then include them. If the people of the State, especially organized groups, would only consider the State program as a whole we would get somewhere and unless that attitude is assumed toward State government, but very little headway will be made."

COMMISSIONER TALKS
Mortimer Clark, of Long Beach, State Real Estate Commissioner, made a very entertaining talk in which he spoke in detail of the aims of the real estate department. One of the chief aims is to raise the standard of those engaged in the business. While there is no intention of preventing people from earning the business, he thought that every safeguard should be maintained. Clark maintained that more matter from the broad standpoint was involved in every transaction handled by a realtor than in the great majority of cases that came into the hands of attorneys, and yet attorneys had to have a four years high school education, three years in law school, and then go before the bar examiners and take a rigid test.

OPTIMISTIC OUTLOOK

The honor guest of the evening was Charles Brock of San Francisco, the state president of the California Real Estate Association. The official was warmly welcomed, and immediately started to give an account of his stewardship, and what was hoped to be accomplished during the present year. The speaker told of his visits to different cities of the state. He noticed a realtor in the road had been passed, that the country was now on the way to recovery, and the next five or ten years would see very prosperous times. A canvass of the cities of the state showed that the number of vacant homes was getting less and less, and it would be only a short time, when building of single family homes must be resumed in order to take care of the growing demand.

SHARKEY PRAISED

Glen C. Williams, state secretary spoke as pinch hitter for Senator W. R. Sharkey, who was unable to be present. The speaker praised the official very highly, and suggested that everyone get behind him, and make him a candidate for governor at the next state election.

MAKE SHORT TALKS

Others who made short talks were Assemblyman Val Latham of Alhambra, Mrs. Frank Hubbard of Pittsburg, secretary of the Contra Costa realtors, Leslie Burke, for 26 years secretary of the San Francisco realtors, William Nye of San Francisco, deputy state real estate commissioner, Mrs. W. H. Sanford, director of the State association, Wade Madren, past president of the Vallejo realtors and Frederick Dubriner, president of the Berkeley real estate body.

Those present at the meeting were: M. A. Davis, Charles Brock, Mortimer Clark, Glen C. Williams, Mrs. W. H. Sanford, T. A. Enclose, J. G. Enloe, Azalia E. Sanford, Esther Green, Mrs. Edward E. Yale Men Are Not Gentlemen; They Prefer Brunettes

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 15.—UP—Yale men may be gentlemen but, nevertheless, they prefer brunettes.

A Yale Daily News survey revealed the preference of the average undergraduate.

"A brunette, medium in height and on the slim side. She likes to dance, smoke and she takes one or two cocktails—no more. She wears colorful finger-nail polish with lips to match; her clothes are smart but not conspicuous. She is not the muscular athletic type, but she does like to swim, ride, and play golf. She would like to marry, but prefers a career for a few years first."

D. A. Defends His Action In McCord Indictment Case

District Attorney Francis P. Healey yesterday issued the following statement relative to the Ruth W. McCord case:

"For some reason or other someone is apparently trying to suggest that the district attorney's office is at fault because the sheriff did not receive the warrant in the McCord matter until several hours after Mrs. McCord had departed from Martinez."

"For this reason the district attorney wishes to state that while it is not his duty to issue a warrant of arrest, yet the district attorney had prepared the warrant of arrest and gave that to the grand jury."

JURY HAD WARRANT

"The grand jury gave that warrant of arrest and the two indictments in the McCord case to the court."

"From then on it was out of the district attorney's hands and under the laws set out in the penal code of this State the district attorney could be arrested if he had disclosed to the sheriff or anyone else of this county whether Mrs. McCord had been indicted that night."

"Therefore the district attorney chose to abide by the law, feeling sure that the warrant would be turned over to the sheriff immediately when the indictment was filed with the court."

WEEKS TO PROBE

"Any suggestion that the district attorney's office is at fault is wrong and unfair to this office."

"We have devoted weeks to the McCord investigation. We prepared the indictments which were handed to the grand jury, at their request, after they had finished their investigation."

"We have cooperated in every way and under the usual procedure when indictments are returned by the grand jury we cannot legally disclose anything that takes place in the courtroom when the grand jury returns the indictments to the court."

WARRANT PREPARED

"At the time the indictments were returned a blank warrant of arrest had been prepared by our office, even though we are not required to do so."

"There have been no amended indictments in this case and there were no corrections in the indictment papers after they had been voted by the grand jury as stated by certain newspapers, and any statement of such nature is false and untrue."

promise" proposal limiting the payment of prevailing wages to work in permanent Federal buildings.

The Russell substitute, however, compels the government to pay a "going" wage and see to it that the prevailing wage structure of the nation is not endangered by the administration of the pending act. No uniformity of wages is demanded.

LABOR DEFEATED

The vote was a smashing defeat for organized labor whose leaders fought to the last for the McCarran amendment.

Its leaders insisted that unless prevailing wages were paid, private employers would seize upon this opportunity to bring private pay down to the level paid by the government.

The administration contended the McCarran amendment would raise the wage bill under the pending measure more than $1,000,000,000 and that it would result in the re-employment of only 1,750,000 instead of 3,500,000.

LONG FIGHT

On these lines the fight was waged for nearly two months. The debate, bitter and lengthy, thundered from the Senate floor and cut sharply across party lines as such men as Senator William E. Borah, R., Ida, Hiram Johnson, R., Calif. and James Couzens, multi-millionaire Michigan Republican, amended for fair play for the unemployed.

Some senators resented the threat of President Roosevelt to veto the measure if it came to the White House with the McCarran amendment included. Among these was McCarran, son of an Irish immigrant, who roared:

"Was this body constituted to be subservient to any one power? Was it not formed to represent the views of the people? Is not the worker in this class?"

No Better Time to Buy Better Light

RIGHT NOW THE COST IS SO LITTLE WITH 1/2 OFF ON EXTRA ELECTRICITY

"How different from an ordinary lamp," you will say when you examine one of the new Night Saving lamps. It is different of course. Its advanced principle of design means better light and better light means a new measure of comfort and protection when reading, sewing or doing other visual work.

Best of all, the Sight Meter, that scientific instrument for measuring light, shows that the new Better Light lamps give 20 to 30 footcandles of light—the correct amount for normal reading or study. This is several times as much useful light as you get from an ordinary lamp.

Good light costs less today than ever before. Electricity is cheap—especially so with 1/2 OFF on EXTRA electricity now available to you each month throughout 1935.
